

Hollygirt School

An independent day school for girls aged 3 – 16

School Aims

2011-12

Hollygirt School provides a caring and friendly environment where the individual is valued and nurtured. Each girl is encouraged to see herself as part of the school community, where integrity and respect for other people are important. The school is forward looking, whilst respecting traditional values.

Hollygirt School aims to provide:

- A broad programme of academic study which fosters a desire to learn, the ability to think and work independently and opportunities for each girl to develop her potential to the full, thus maintaining a tradition of excellence.
- A structured pastoral system which guides and supports girls, promoting the personal development of each individual within the school community.
- Opportunities for each girl to develop the skills to enable her to be an independent, resourceful and responsible member of society.
- Encouragement for each girl to develop moral, spiritual, cultural and social awareness.
- A range of extracurricular activities with opportunities for enjoyment, challenge, initiative, leadership and service to the wider community.
- Close communication with parents, so that school and family work together to promote the well being of each girl in the school community.
- A well ordered community with high standards of behaviour, self-discipline and courtesy.
- A comprehensive programme of careers education, widening the girls' understanding of the opportunities available in the changing world of work and equipping them with the skills to manage their own future careers.

Thus it is hoped that each member of the school community will develop the confidence and self esteem to face the challenges ahead with enthusiasm and optimism.
